Livingston
HealthCare
Foundation

Where giving is caring.

Letter from Outgoing Board Chair, Dr. Debbie Erdman

Dear Members of the Boards of Livingston HealthCare Foundation and Livingston HealthCare, LHC staff, donor community, and our neighbors of Park and Sweet Grass Counties:

Memorialized on our Capital Campaign Donor Board are the sage words of Winston Churchill, "We make a living by what we get, we make a life by what we give." With both humility and pride, I am honored to be part of our wonderful and generous donor community. And in speaking for myself, and perhaps many others, it is the impact we can make on so many lives in our community that I feel as so personally rewarding.

In fiscal year 2019, the Foundation raised $525,979 in new contributions from individuals, foundations, and businesses. The Foundation received $102,000 in grants, from our long-time partner, the Montana HealthCare Foundation. $81,000 will support the integration of behavioral health and substance use treatment into perinatal care, allowing women, children, and families to thrive. $21,000 supports both LHC and Community Health Partners to enhance pediatric oral health care in the primary care setting.

Pledges to the $10 million New Hospital Campaign continue to be honored with over $265,000 in payments received this year.

I would like to acknowledge some particularly large gifts from Major Donors that impacted the hospital this past year.

- Kendrick R. Wilson and Ann Jackson
- Deborah Erdman and Andreas Luder
- Mary Ann Bearden and Marilyn Clotz
- American Foundation
- Henry E. Blake
- McCrum Fund Inc.
- Anne M. Donahoe
- Pat and Shelley Gilligan
- Donald B. Gimbel
- John Greist
- John Temple
- Rosenberry Charitable Term Trust
- Tim C. Warner
- Tom and Meredith Brokaw
- Joe Phelps

And I am pleased to let you know that we recently received $183,000 from AMB West Philanthropies in support of their Youth Suicide Prevention Program. We are inexpressibly grateful to AMB West for being a part of our community and for its support of so many charitable causes in Park County, and beyond.

Many of your gifts, large and small, have helped to expand Livingston HealthCare's Pediatric and Adolescent Mental Health services including the current recruitment of a Clinical Psychologist with an interest in Pediatrics. A PhD Clinical Psychologist will offer more advanced behavioral health care and bring more depth to the mental health currently available to youth at LHC and on site at The Ranger Clinic at Park High.

I thank you for all that you have helped Livingston HealthCare accomplish and it is with great pleasure that I welcome Livingston HealthCare Foundation's incoming Chair, Mary Ann Bearden (see bio within). I have no doubt that this organization will continue to grow and reach new achievements under Mary Ann's leadership.

With Heartfelt Gratitude to All,

Debbie

You Made This Happen

FY2019 Equipment Acquisitions

Stryker Pivot Guardian Distraction System

New technology allows the surgeon easier access to the hip joint when performing arthroscopic procedures, resulting in fewer post-surgical complications.

Used to treat patients in a variety of specialties including Sports Medicine and Geriatrics.

Neptune Waste Management System

This self-contained waste management system for the surgical suites enhances both patient and staff safety.

Steris V-PRO 60 Low Temperature Sterilization System

Low-temperature sterilization is gentler on surgical instruments while still cleaning and sterilizing effectively, thereby extending the life of equipment.

Did You Know?

Dr. Michael Ferrell of Bridger Orthopedic is one of only a handful of surgeons in Montana who perform hip arthroscopy. Through the partnership between LHC and Bridger Orthopedic, Dr. Ferrell treats patients here at LHC.

ELI 380 Electrocardiograph

The ELI 380 is designed to make the total EKG experience more efficient—from decreasing the time required to perform the procedure, to increasing the accuracy and security of the data acquired, to the overall patient care experience.

LHC acquired two new units, one for the inpatient floor and one for the Emergency Department; current units replaced aging EKGs at LHC's UrgentCare and Shields Valley clinic.

Between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019:

- Inpatient floor unit averaged 40 uses per month
- Emergency Department unit averaged 145 uses per month

Computer for Pulmonary Function Testing Machine

Pulmonary Function Testing is a noninvasive test that shows how well the lungs are working. The tests measure lung volume, capacity, rates of flow, and gas exchange.

LHC's PFT machine averaged 12.6 uses per month between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019.

Pro-Nox Nitrous Oxide Delivery System Units

The Pro-Nox Nitrous Oxide Delivery System is a patient-controlled inhaled analgesia system that delivers 50% oxygen and 50% nitrous oxide for the relief of pain and anxiety.

Thanks to a generous major donor, LHC acquired two Pro-Nox Systems, one for the Family Birth Center and one for the Emergency Department.

“I cared for an OB patient recently that was very happy with the effects and use. She made it through her delivery with Nitrous as her only pain control... We can now offer another alternative for pain control... Women should have every option available!”

– Bonnie Roll, Certified Nurse Midwife,
Women's Health Nurse Practitioner

Additional Equipment

- Surgical tables
- Epidural pumps for pain management
- Improved cellular service
- Ultrasound machine for cardiology
- Ultrasound machine for anesthesia
- Upgrades to the radio communications systems to enhance LHC's emergency preparedness

New Board Member Profiles

Mary Ann Bearden

Mary Ann Bearden graduated high school in Dallas, Texas in 1969. She finished her B.A. in English Literature at Colorado State University in 1972, then spent three years as a lineman for Chesapeake & Potomac Bell in the Appalachian Mountains before starting law school at the University of Oregon in 1975. After graduating law school, Mary Ann went into private practice in Eugene, Oregon. After 20 years practicing law, she was appointed to the bench as a Circuit Court Judge in 1998, where she served until her retirement. During her last ten years on the bench, Mary Ann served as the presiding judge for the second largest judicial district in Oregon. After retirement Mary Ann and her spouse, Marilyn Clotz moved to Park County full-time in early 2017. She had been fishing in Park County as a child since 1969 and has vacationed here every year since 1990, eventually building a home here in 2005.

Bob Gersack

After graduating with degrees in History and English from the University of Great Falls in 1966, Bob began his career in banking in Great Falls and transferred to Miles City in 1970 to work for First Bank System, now US Bank. In 1985, Bob transferred to Livingston as President of First Bank System and has maintained a home here ever since. In 1987, Bob led a group of investors to purchase the Livingston branch of First Bank System and operate it as First National Park Bank. The branch sold to First Interstate Bank in 1997 and Bob stayed on as President for several years before transferring to the First Interstate Holding Company in Billings for the remaining five years of his career. Throughout his career, Bob has served as President of the Montana Bankers Association and Chairman of the Montana Banking Commission. Now retired, Bob and his wife Jane split their time between Arizona and their home in Livingston. They have four children and 11 grandchildren. Bob serves on the Foundation Board because LHC and high-quality medical care are essential to ensuring that Livingston remains a viable community where people want to live and raise their families.

Joe Phelps

Joe Phelps is considered to be one of the pioneering innovators of truly integrated marketing communications. Since 1981, The Phelps Group—now in Playa Vista, California—has delivered campaigns for category-leading brands such as Panasonic, Public Storage, Tahiti Tourism, Petco, DirecTV and City of Hope. The agency worked only for clients whose products helped make the world a better place. Joe's book, Pyramids Are Tombs, outlines a new organizational model for aligning associates and clients for success. He is chairman and founder of the Getting Better Foundation whose mission is to build trust through the empirical truth about the positive evolution of human behavior. An alum of the University of Arkansas, Joe was a musician and recording engineer before moving to Los Angeles, where he worked for multi-national ad agencies prior to founding The Phelps Group. In 2005 he built his "Rancho Relaxo" in Paradise Valley. When he's not doing his part to help out the community, Joe enjoys fishing, playing drums, planting trees and entertaining a cavalcade of guests.

Chris Darnell

LHCF is pleased to welcome Chris Darnell as the new Vice President of Operations at Livingston HealthCare. Chris began his new role in late April after having served as Administrator at Bozeman Health Big Sky Medical Center where he was responsible for day-to-day operations and leading development efforts for the Bozeman Health clinically-integrated network. Chris joined Bozeman Health Medical Group in 2014 and served as Vice President for four years overseeing physician clinic integration, operations, and development.

A native of Virginia, Chris spent 15 years in Charleston, South Carolina, primarily at the Medical University of South Carolina. His roles ranged from administrative fellow to director to administrator, and most of his experience involved working with physicians and managing practices. He then moved to East Cooper Medical Center, also in the Charleston area, where he served as Vice President for Strategy and Development, leading strategic planning and developing the physician network. Chris holds both a master's and doctorate degree in Health Services Administration.

Leadership Profile

The Caregiver by Floyd DeWitt.

The Gift of Art

“The addition of The Caregiver to the Atrium, situated below the Chatham paintings, brings the collection full-circle, celebrating the natural beauty of our region and the compassionate care provided by Livingston HealthCare to our community.”

– Lee Freeman

The Atrium is named in memory of Glynna W. Freeman

Artist Floyd DeWitt and family.

At Livingston HealthCare, the hospital’s extensive art collection is not just pleasing to the eye, it is an integral contributor to the therapeutic, healing environment of the medical facility. Studies show that art in a hospital setting can have positive effects on health outcomes including shorter length of hospital stay and decreased anxiety in patients. Knowing this, LHC and the Foundation strive to curate a collection that honors our beautiful building and brings joy and comfort to our patients.

As we celebrate four years in the new hospital campus, we also celebrate the final installation of the new hospital art collection with the unveiling of The Caregiver, a cast bronze sculpture by acclaimed Montana artist Floyd DeWitt.

The sculpture, which stands 20 inches in height, portrays a nurse aiding a patient and embodies the care and compassion of our staff here at LHC. Inspired by DeWitt’s mother, a nurse by profession, the sculpture honors the invaluable role of nurses throughout history and in present day.

Born in Wolf Point, Montana, 1934, DeWitt attended the Minneapolis School of Art in Minnesota and later the Royal Academy of Fine Art in Amsterdam, Holland. DeWitt went on to spend 25 years in Europe refining his skills and building a reputation as a highly-regarded sculptor. Many of his commissioned pieces can be observed in parks and public buildings across the continent.

DeWitt returned to his native Montana in 1984 and continued to produce fine art. In 1991, he was featured in a one-man show entitled “The Silent Voice of Form,” held at the Holter Museum of Art in Helena.

Through his art, DeWitt has reconciled America’s diverse European heritage and its remarkable Western culture with his commitment to excellence in the sculptural form. He uses fine art to blend metaphor and myth with artistic knowledge to express the transforming power of the human spirit.

The Russell Chatham

In 1990, Russell Chatham prepared for a show that would make history. Chatham was set to star in the biggest one-man show featuring a living native Montana artist at the Museum of the Rockies.

The show was a huge success with 13 large new paintings completed especially for the new museum space and 100 paintings collected from around the country, spanning 25 years of his career. Unfortunately, over the next 25 years, it was a struggle for the museum to keep all the paintings displayed and so most were often in storage.

Nearly three decades later in 2015, 12 of Chatham’s paintings from the Museum of the Rockies, made the move to Livingston HealthCare, and are now in Livingston’s state-of-the-art healthcare facility. When the paintings made their way to Livingston HealthCare, Chatham said he was beyond relieved.

“I was thrilled,” Chatham says. “That’s a lot of work, and I’m just so happy that it’s out for visitors to see. That’s what it’s meant for.”

One piece of work, the biggest of all according to Chatham, still resides in the museum in Bozeman, and is on display in the main room. It’s up to nine feet wide and almost 15 feet tall, Chatham says.

Chatham was born into a family of art grandeur. He is the grandson of Swiss-born painter, muralist and sculptor Gottardo Piazzoni, though Chatham is mostly a self-taught artist. Born in San Francisco, Chatham has spent a large part of his life in Livingston, where he says most of his development as an artist took place. That’s why, he says, it makes perfect sense for so much of his work to be on display in Livingston.

“I feel as though I have been pretty integrated into the town and the people,” he says.

Chatham’s 13 paintings were created specifically for the Museum of the Rockies — which is why many of them have such large dimensions. He worked closely with the museum on the design of the space and the paintings and donated all but one to be in the museum’s permanent collection. The most noticeable of Chatham’s works of art that is displayed at Livingston HealthCare is a large-format piece that towers over the Glynna Freeman Auditorium. Appropriately enough, it was inspired by a beautiful Montana valley.

“The idea for that one came from the valley between Butte and Missoula,” Chatham says. “That painting was a real challenge to do, but it seems to have worked out pretty well.”

Now that the metaphorical dust has settled, and people from far and wide have come to see Chatham’s work at Livingston HealthCare, the artist is extremely grateful for the way things turned out.

“People come all the way to Livingston from everywhere to see [my work], and I think that’s fantastic,” Chatham says. “It’s extremely rewarding to me. I’m so pleased the paintings are at the hospital because it saved the art from life in storage and made it available for everyone to enjoy.”

2019 Award Recipient David Stanley

“His unparalleled role on LHC and LHCF Boards is evidence of his dedication...”

David Stanley is the recipient of this year's Debbie Erdman-Lee Freeman Leadership in Philanthropy Award in recognition of his years of service and leadership in civic and philanthropic efforts across the nation and here in Park County, Montana. David served on the Board of Directors for Community Health Partners for 13 years and the Park County Community Foundation for four years. His unparalleled role on the Boards of both Livingston HealthCare and Livingston HealthCare Foundation is evidence of his dedication to ensuring accessible, quality healthcare in rural Montana.

David Stanley is a retired Chief Executive Officer of a leading building materials specialty retailer, Payless Cashways, Inc., a position he held for 15 years. Prior to joining Payless Cashways, David served as Executive Vice President of Piper Jaffray, Inc., a Minneapolis-based investment banking firm. David is a graduate of Columbia University Law School and has practiced law in New York City and Minneapolis.

David began his civic career in 1968 when, what is now US Bank, recruited him to lead a non-profit redevelopment of a block in North Minneapolis that was burned down during the riots following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King. Since then, David's steadfast civic and philanthropic participation in efforts surrounding quality, affordable housing includes 10 years as Chair and a Director of the National Equity Fund, the nation's leading equity investor in non-profit affordable housing and the principal source of equity financing for the Sherwood and Miles affordable apartments in Livingston. David served nine years as Chair and a Director of the Preservation of Affordable Housing, 14 years as a Director for the Corporation for Supportive Housing, and 17 years as a Director for the Local Initiatives Support Corporation, America's largest financial intermediary supporting locally-based community development. For three years, David was a Commissioner on the Millennial Housing Commission, a group appointed by Congress to recommend housing initiatives.

David has also served as Director with the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, Kansas City Harmony, KC Neighborhood Alliance, Twin Cities Public Television, the Harry S. Truman Library Institute, the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis, and as Chair of the Civic Council of Greater Kansas City. In 1991 David was named Kansas Citian of the Year by the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Kansas City, a reflection of his community service, particularly in the area of housing development.

David has six children, two step-children, 20 grandchildren and one great granddaughter. Since moving to Livingston in 1998 with wife Jean Keffeler, David has been very active in the community, bringing his experience in business, investment banking, and law to multiple nonprofit boards. In addition to his work with Community Health Partners and the Park County Community Foundation, David played a pivotal role as Co-Chair of the largest fundraising effort in Park County history, Livingston HealthCare Foundation's successful $10M New Hospital Campaign, effectively securing numerous large donations that were essential to the cause. David has been on the Board of Directors for Livingston HealthCare since 2012. David is also a court-appointed advocate with CASA of Park and Sweet Grass Counties through which he has served as Guardian Ad Litem to victims of child abuse and neglect since 2008.

Pediatric and Adolescent Mental Health Initiative

This year's major fundraising campaign was one that addresses a vital health problem in our community, Youth Suicide.

Montana is ranked 49th in the prevalence of youth behavioral health problems and corresponding access, or lack thereof, to services for treatment in each U.S. state.

The State of Park County

Park County has seen a troubling pattern in the behavioral health of its residents over the last several years, particularly in that of our youth. Among 2,727 counties nationally, Park County is ranked 28th in suicide mortality.

According to the Youth Risk Behavior Survey conducted by the CDC in 2017:

- 35% of Park County high school students polled reported symptoms of depression in the last year
- 13% of Park County high school students polled reported attempting suicide in the last year

Livingston HealthCare staff and providers see the tragic effects of mental health conditions that go unaddressed. In a six-month period, LHC's Emergency Department reported 40 total pediatric mental health crises between December 1, 2018 and May 31, 2019. Of these encounters,

- 16 consisted of suicide ideation
- 4 consisted of intentional overdose

Mental Health Services in Montana

A recent national survey examined the prevalence of behavioral health problems and corresponding access, or lack thereof, to services for treatment in each U.S. state:

- Montana ranked 44th overall and 49th for youth

In 2016, only 25% of Montana's mental health professional needs were met, placing us in the bottom five of all states.

The Good News

The good news is that intervention and counseling can successfully address many of the underlying intrinsic and environmental stressors that lead to anxiety and depression and teach youth who have experienced trauma how to utilize positive coping mechanisms that will help them grow into healthy adults.

Livingston HealthCare is committed to adding a Clinical Psychologist with an interest in pediatric and adolescent work to its growing Behavioral Health Team. A PhD Clinical Psychologist will offer more advanced behavioral health care and bring more depth to the services currently available at LHC.

Additionally, LHC is committed to integrating behavioral health care into primary and preventative care. Mental health screenings provided during preventative health services such as Well-Child check-ups and sports physicals offer opportunities to provide anticipatory guidance that can reduce risk-taking behaviors and offer healthy lifestyle education.

We thank so many of our donor community for their support of this critical fundraising campaign.

2019 Alpenglowl Gala

Our New Team Members

We are pleased to welcome LaNette Jones and Becky Seres to the LHC Foundation team.

LaNette Jones – Development Officer

LaNette assumes the role of our second Development Officer. LaNette is a native Montanan and has resided in Livingston since 2013. LaNette moved to Livingston to help her family begin a new business in the craft brewing world.

Most recently, she was the Executive Director for Big Brothers Big Sisters of Park County and prior to that the Executive Director for CASA of Missoula. She holds a Master's Degree in Social Work from the University of Montana and brings over 10 years of experience in non-profit management.

Becky Seres – Foundation Administrator

Becky has worked in the healthcare field for more than 20 years. After moving to Montana two years ago, she joined the Livingston HealthCare team as a Patient Account Analyst. Becky is excited to join the Foundation and hopes to contribute her expertise in account management and finance to her position. Becky is passionate about community activism and has a long history of volunteering. She has served as the Vice Chair of the Sierra Club Local Chapter, Vice Chair of the Climate Action Advisory Commission, and most recently as a Volunteer Advocate for ASPEN. In her free time, Becky enjoys traveling, cooking and hiking with her family.

Thank you to our sponsors!
